Grammarly for Education Provides Impactful Access at UIC

The University of Illinois Chicago sought to support its diverse, commuter student body by providing a writing improvement tool to help students enhance the quality of their assignments. There were already a small number of students using Grammarly on their own. The Office of the CIO decided to invest in institution-wide access to ensure that all students have equal access to premium features.

93% UIC students, staff, and faculty agree that Grammarly reduces errors in their writing.

90% UIC students, staff, and faculty agree that Grammarly was easy to install and set up to account preferences.

6.67K active users in first 60 days of implementation, approximately 20% of the campus population.

“We decided on Grammarly because it’s a tool that’s widely used in the workplace, has generative features we as an IT team have some control over, and works in every writing context.”
